Break-Through Digital Technology

info@speakers.co.uk

Teleportation is the digital transmission of a life-size image of a person to appear within a room at a distant location where the person has a telepresence for engaging in natural communication. The technology allows real-time, natural, face-to-face communication with eye contact.

The possible benefits of using this break-through technology are numerous and the impact on the effectiveness of the business processes and organization can be phenomenal.

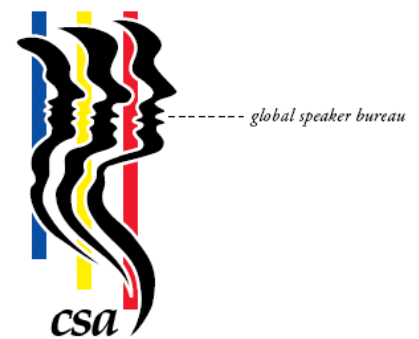

This really is the closest thing to actually being there.

In detail

Teleportation makes it possible for a speaker to be in two places at the same time, wherever they are in the world. The easy to use system digitally teleports the speaker's image from their location to a meeting, conference or event anywhere in the world. The speaker will appear in the room life-size, live, within an apparent 3D-environment as if they are actually in there and have eye-to-eye contact with those present. Natural face-to-face interaction can now take place without travelling across the world and therefore enhancing your internal and external communications network.

Teleportation technology is - without any doubt – the most advanced way available today to project a person over distance. It is possible to be global and personal at the same time. The sensation approximates the feeling of meeting-in-person. Travel only if you have to, or if you really want to. Teleportation could bring speakers to you and allow them to go to places they might not otherwise be able to get to.

Products

Lectern

The system presents a teleported person within the volume of space behind the podium. This system is designed to feature a teleported presenter for an audience from a few to several hundred.

Conference Table

This device is the perfect meeting room solution. This system enables a person to be teleported to appear around a board room table and have eye to eye contact with all participants.

Teleporter Desk

This teleporter is designed to enable a person to be teleported from it easily and comfortably to any location on our Global Network. This system can also receive a teleported person who would appear in the chair on the opposite side of the desk. This is ideal for more intimate discussion over distance.
