
Lawrence Dallaglio OBE

Rugby World Cup Winner

"One of the world's greatest back-row players"

Lawrence Dallaglio was one of the key players in the World Cup winning 2003 England Rugby Union squad. Captaining England before handing over to Martin Johnson has given him first hand experience of dealing with pressure and the importance of strong leadership.

TOPICS:

- Leadership
- Teamwork
- Motivation
- Achieving Goals
- After Dinner
- Peak Performance

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2009	Dallaglio's Rugby Tales: Legendary Stories of Blood, Sweat and Beers
2008	It's In My Blood - autobiography

IN DETAIL:

Educated at Ampleforth College and Kingston University, Lawrence has represented England at every level and is recognised as one of the world's greatest back row players. He has been voted player of the year on a number of occasions and is noted for his pace, power and ball handling skills. He has scored 10 international tries, holds 47 full caps and has captained England on 14 occasions. During the World Cup Lawrence's contribution in the build up and the final helped secure one of the most important victories in English Rugby. Lawrence has won virtually every position and accolade available in the game.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Lawrence draws parallels from his experiences as a professional rugby player to motivate and inspire audiences. He explains the importance of good teamwork and strong leadership both on and off the field and in our personal lives.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

An entertaining speaker, Lawrence is a great motivator and an excellent after dinner speaker, his presentations are always well-received.