

Ian Dunt

Political Analyst & Commentator

"A leading political commentator"

Ian Dunt is the former editor of Politics.co.uk, one of the most widely read specialist political websites by MPs and members of the public. He is a regular columnist for both New European and the i newspaper. He specialises in immigration, civil liberties, democracy, free speech, and justice.

TOPICS:

- On the Ropes: Will Multinational Institutions Survive Attacks from Within?
- 'F Business': What Happened to Business' Relation with Politics and How Can It Be Repaired?
- Where Do We Go Next: Disturbance in the Media and Fake News
- Is There a Limit to the Global Spread of Populism?

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2023	How Westminster Works . . . and Why It Doesn´t
2020	How to Be a Liberal
2016	Brexit: What the Hell Happens Now?

IN DETAIL:

Ian was part of the team that launched Remainiacs, a political podcast about Britain's departure from the European Union. It was received with critical acclaim, with The Guardian's Miranda Sawyer calling it one of the "best podcasts of 2017" and being nominated for the Broadcasting Press Guild Awards' "Podcast of the Year". In 2020 the podcast was rebranded as Oh God What Now and regularly features Ian as a host. He is a regular in the media and appears as a pundit on Sky News, BBC Tv and Al-Jazeera. His journalism career started at Pink News before he became a Political Analyst for Yahoo. He continues his passion for politics in his career as an author.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

As a political speaker, he discusses the biggest news stories in detail. Working with a corporate audience, he analyses the interplay between political events and their effects on businesses, offering guidance on how to optimise opportunities arising from these dynamics.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Ian Dunt combines wit and extensive knowledge of the British political scene to deliver impeccably informative and enlightening speeches. He can go into detail on the biggest stories impacting the country with an analytical ability few possess.