

Jeff Randall

Editor-at-Large of the Daily Telegraph

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Jeff Randall is a Business Journalist, formerly the Business Editor of BBC News and Editor-at-Large of the Daily Telegraph. He joined the Daily Telegraph in 2005 after four years with the BBC. He was previously with the Sunday Business, which he edited from its launch in February 1998.

"He talks and writes about complex financial matters in a language people understand." The Daily Telegraph

In detail

Between 1986 and 1988 he was City Correspondent for the Sunday Telegraph, which he joined from the Financial Weekly, where he was Assistant Editor. He spent five years from 1989 to 1994 as City Editor on the Sunday Times. Between 1994 and 1995 he was City and Business Editor on the Sunday Times, as well as a Director of Times Newspapers. From 1995 to 1996 he was Deputy Chairman of Financial Dynamics Ltd, a City PR firm. He then became Assistant Editor and Sports Editor on the Sunday Times and was responsible for launching the Sunday Times' 20-page colour sports section in 1996. He won the London Press Club's Business Journalist of the Year Award in 2000 and the FT Analysis' Financial Journalist of the Year Award in 1991.

What he offers you

One of the UK's best known and most influential business commentators, Jeff proves to be an ideal moderator and host at various conferences throughout the country.

How he presents

Relaxed and highly professional he draws on his extensive media experience to provide audiences with a truly memorable event.

Languages

He presents in English.

Want to know more?

Give us a call or send us an e-mail to find out exactly what he could bring to your event.

How to book him?

Simply phone, fax or e-mail us.

Topics

Media
Host
Entertainment
Moderator
Current Affairs