

June Sarpong MBE

TV Presenter and Interviewer

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

June Sarpong MBE is best known as the presenter of Channel 4's T4 and the game show Your Face or Mine. She also runs her own production company, Lipgloss Productions. Having left T4 in 2007 she has launched Politics in the City.com, an innovative women's lifestyle and news internet site. In the run-up to the 2005 general election she shadowed Tony Blair for two days before an interview where she challenged him on the war in Iraq. A popular and well-loved personality within the world of TV, she was voted as the number one panellist young people wanted to see on the legendary British political discussion show Question Time. She has interviewed some of the world's biggest names including HRH Prince of Wales, Bill Clinton, Al Gore.

Interviewing a tired, bored and crotchety Robert De Niro, she won him round by simply saying: "Hi Bob, I'm June."

In detail

June's career started as work experience for KISS FM, which went so well they offered her a broad ranging full-time job, including covering for Janice V on The Word. They gave June her first big break in Radio when she did a special with Steve Jackson. June is an ambassador for the Prince's Trust and also campaigns for the Make Poverty History movement. June is a media phenomenon and is the only presenter of her generation that is comfortable interviewing politicians, celebrities and members of the public.

What she offers you

Having hosted the major Make Poverty History event in London's Trafalgar Square in 2005 which featured Nelson Mandela and Sir Bob Geldof and presented at the UK leg of Live Earth at Wembley Stadium in 2007, June is one of the UK's best known television personalities and well used to the pressures of live television. She is a versatile and relaxed performer and in great demand as a presenter and host at prestigious events around the UK and overseas.

How she presents

Young, sassy and energetic, the effervescent and bubbly presenter June Sarpong has gained a reputation for being stylish, easy going and hard working making her an ideal choice whether presenting awards or hosting large events.
