Inventor of the MP3 Player

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Nathan Schulhof is the inventor of the MP3 player. A serial entrepreneur he is currently heading Goldpine Partners, a consulting and investment firm that focuses on engagements with technology and biotechnology companies. Goldpine currently serves clients in industries ranging from telecommunications to Internet services, and from fiber optics to blood analysis devices.

"A serial entrepreneur in the world of new technologies"

In detail

Nathan entered the technology world in the late 1970s when he began working on a software idea that eventually bore fruit as Silicon Valley Systems, the developer of Word Handler, the first and best-selling high-resolution graphics word processor for the Apple II computer. SVS was also the first technology firm to implement a telemarketing effort targeting the retail channel.

What he offers you

Through the years, Nathan has been extensively quoted and featured in technology and consumer media, including pieces in the Wall Street Journal, Forbes, Businessweek, Inc., Success, among others. He has spoken extensively at industry events (including COMDEX, CES, Fall Internet World and Apple Computer's Independent Developer Conference, among others), and has raised tens of millions of dollars in private and public equity.
