

Paul O'Grady OBE

Comedian and Television Star AKA Lily Savage

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Born Paul O'Grady, the creation of a loud and obnoxious scouse transvestite has made Lily Savage one of television's most popular stars. Stardom was achieved by presenting the long-running Blankety-Blank series from 1998 as well as earlier appearances on The Big Breakfast (1995-6) and her own television series The Lily Savage Show (1998). Lily Savage and Paul O'Grady, the man behind the Birkenhead slapper are undoubtedly the best that British comedy has to offer. This unique talent has won legions of fans at home and abroad and accolades such as a British Comedy Award, the Variety Club TV Personality Of The Year and two National Television Awards. Lily stands, quite literally, head and shoulders above her peers and whilst on tour sells out major theatres throughout the country. On television, both Lily and Paul have had very successful series and hopefully many more will follow in the future.
