

Tim Campbell

Entrepreneur, London Mayor's Ambassador for Training and Enterprise & First Winner of The Apprentice

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Tim Campbell was the winner of the first series of the British version of the hit TV series The Apprentice. Tim was hired by Lord Alan Sugar and became the Project Director of the new Health & Beauty division within Amstrad. He launched an initiative that will give £1 million a year to entrepreneurs called the Bright Ideas Trust. In 2010 Tim was recruited as Boris Johnson's Ambassador for Training and Enterprise, part of a drive to create more apprenticeships and training opportunities across the city.

"A Great Asset" Lord Alan Sugar

In detail

Tim Campbell is a Middlesex University graduate in Psychology and worked as a Senior Planner within the Marketing and Planning Department of London Underground. Tim has spent much time within various communities and institutions, promoting an entrepreneurial culture and motivating others, particularly the younger generation, to pursue their dreams.

What he offers you

Tim inspires and motivates audiences across the country as he talks in great detail about his experiences working for Lord Alan Sugar and the lessons he learned from his appearance on The Apprentice and subsequent job at Amstrad.

How he presents

Tim is a charismatic individual and his presentations are entertaining, inspirational and highly enjoyable. After his presentations Tim likes to engage in a lively Q&A session with the audience.

Languages

He presents in English.

Want to know more?

Give us a call or send us an e-mail to find out exactly what he could bring to your event.

How to book him?

Simply phone, fax or e-mail us.

Topics

Risk Taking
Coping with Change
Building Self Confidence
Staying Focussed
Managing Teams
Entrepreneurial Flair
Family Values
Inspiration, Aspiration and Motivation
Mentors and Mentoring
Networking
Social Enterprise