"A leading business figure in South America"

In detail

He is also the founder of Wanako Games, a US based developer of console videogames. The company won the "Game of the Year" award for Xbox Live in 2006. Wanako Games was sold to Vivendi Universal (Euronext: VIV) and in 1997, Casares founded Patagon, an Online Brokerage. The company also expanded into online banking in Spain and Germany. Patagon was the first Latin American online broker and online bank. In 1994 Casares launched Internet Argentina S.A., the first internet service provider in the country. He then sold that company in order to establish Patagon.
