"Everyone has positively raved about Dr Aric Sigman's excellent talk!" The Samaritans

In detail

Dr Sigman has written and presented documentaries for BBC1 and Radio 4 on the scientific basis of faith, the biology of hypnosis, and the effects of too much choice and for Channel 4's Dispatches on the detrimental effects of moderate dieting. He continues to be interviewed on programmes such as Newsnight and Today. He has also worked on health education campaigns with the Department of Health and acted as advisor to the Institute of Personnel Management on health and psychology issues.

What he offers you

Dr Aric Sigman has the unique ability to translate complex scientific research into easy-to-digest information. In his motivational presentations, he specialises in explaining how delegates can use the latest scientific research to raise performance, productivity, creativity and morale. He covers subjects such as stress management and preventing depression, transferring skills, surviving information overload and political correctness in the workplace.

How he presents

Always fascinating, he is a lively, entertaining and sometimes provocative speaker positively encouraging interaction and heated debate - a combination he has used to good effect when presenting programmes.

Languages

He presents in English.
