

Audley Harrison MBE

British Boxing Legend

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

Audley Harrison MBE is a former British heavyweight boxer who has brought boxing to the forefront of British sport and became a true icon. At the 2000 Olympics in Sydney he became the first British fighter to win an Olympic gold medal in the superheavyweight division. He became European Champion in 2010, fought for the World Heavyweight title in 2011 and won the Prize-fighter tournament twice, in 2009 and 2013. He is also one of the most recognisable figures in the media landscape and his popularity has only continued to grow.

"A name synonymous with British Boxing"

In detail

Audley made his professional debut in 2001 after signing a contract with BBC Sport, enjoying a stellar career, sharing the ring with some of the biggest names in British boxing. Outside of the ring, Audley successfully self-managed his professional boxing career through his own promotions company. Serving as CEO, he carved an impressive resume of business successes in the boardroom. His remarkable success and significant contribution to sport was recognised in 2001 when he was awarded an MBE.

What he offers you
