He was previously an Executive Director at Ashridge Management College, having begun his career with Shell. Prof. Obeng pioneered the concept of the 'New World' throughout the 1990's. He and his team have spent the best part of a decade re-writing the fundamentals of business management to create their own coherent, joined up New World approach. They have challenged all the established thinking from strategy as environmental fit to 'hero' leaders and re-interpreted the needs for the 21st century of complexity and fast change.
