

James Acaster

Stand-Up Comedian

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

James Acaster began performing stand-up comedy in 2008. Since then his popularity has grown and in 2013 he performed at the New Zealand International Comedy Festival where his show was nominated for Best International Show. He also took his third solo show Lawnmower to the Edinburgh festival where it was nominated for Best Comedy Show at the Foster's Comedy Awards. James has decided that winning things is overrated. He has his own Radio 4 series James Acaster's Findings and regularly features on The Josh Widdicombe Show on XFM.

"Curious, original and immensely enjoyably" The Telegraph
