IN DETAIL:

After reaching international acclaim, the award-winning artist took a break from the quartet and has since carved out an equally successful career as a presenter and small holding farmer. Developing his own small holding, JB has utilised his industry status to promote British bred meat, and sustainable methods, even hosting his own series aimed at educating children "Down on the Farm". Evidently passionate about his work, JB's presenting of the series saw it nominated for a BAFTA, and he appeared on further programmes including "Springwatch" and "Countryfile".

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

JB provides insights and anecdotes from his career in music. He draws on the lessons he learned as part of a successful group to show audiences the importance of teamwork and how to achieve our own personal goals. He is also in demand for appearances and awards events.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

JB's relaxed, friendly and open manner comes across at any event where he enjoys sharing his experiences and enthusiasm for music and business with his audiences.
