In detail

Trained as a lawyer and serving as Canada's twentieth prime minister, he made his mark as a legislator and statesman. His career spans more than 40 years in public service, through six prime ministers. He was first elected to Parliament in 1963, at the age of twenty-nine. Four years later he was given his first Cabinet post and, over the next thirty years, he headed nine key ministries holding many positions in the government including Minister of Finance, State, National Revenue, as well as Industry, Trade, and Commerce. From 1993 to 2003 he was Prime Minister of Canada and from 1990 to 2003 Leader of the Liberal Party of Canada.
