

Jimmy Tarbuck OBE

Legend of British Comedy & Entertainment

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

Jimmy Tarbuck OBE, known affectionately as 'Tarby' is one of Britain's favourite comics and has a TV career spanning over forty years. Today, he can often be found either on the golf course or entertaining corporate audiences at gala dinners and award ceremonies with his quick wit and charismatic personality. In 2008, he returned to a variety format on TV screens when he co-hosted an edition of ITV1's new variety show, For One Night Only.

"Still one of Britain's top cabaret artiste's & after-dinner speakers"

In detail

Jimmy Tarbuck's first TV show was It's Tarbuck 65! on ITV. He has hosted numerous quiz shows, including Winner Takes All, Full Swing and Tarby's Frame Game. He was the last original host of Sunday Night at the London Palladium. In the 1980s, he hosted similar Sunday night variety shows, Live From Her Majesty's, Live from the Piccadilly and finally Live from the Palladium, which were produced by London Weekend Television for ITV as well as hosting the BBC BAFTA tribute to the late Bob Monkhouse OBE more recently.
