

Maarten Nijhoff Asser

Leading Authority on Managing Cultural Diversity

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

Maarten Nijhoff Asser leads the team at the Trompenaars-Hampden-Turner Intercultural Management Consulting in the United States, based in Cambridge, MA. He is responsible for working closely with international clients and developing executive learning programs and consulting projects based on THT's Culture for Business Concept.

"Maarten challenges many of the cultural biases that shape our thinking and business practices"

In detail

Maarten graduated from the University of Amsterdam, Faculty of Law, with a degree in international organizations and intellectual property (1987). Further studies include an MBA in Innovation, Strategy, Information & Technology (1997) from THESEUS International Management Institute in Sophia Antipolis, France, and extensive coursework at New York University. He worked as an independent consultant for various organisations before his term at THESEUS Institute. During his MBA, he developed Scenario Planning workshops for the IT-function of ABN AMRO bank. After three years as senior consultant in the Amsterdam office of THT, Maarten relocated to the U.S., where he has been responsible for the continuous development of the company's interactive, multi media, and publishing activities.
