

Prince Abdi

Stand Up Comedian

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

Prince Abdi is a British stand-up, actor, writer and a regular on the UK comedy circuit. His versatile and unique story telling style of comedy made him the perfect choice to support Reginald D Hunter, Stephen K Amos and Dave Chappelle on their national tours. Prince has written and starred in his own television sketch for the BBC, Comedy Central and ITV, as well as comedy and drama features. He has performed on Comedy Central's The World Stands Up, BBC Three's Laughter Shock and ITV's FHM Stand Up Hero. His other credits include BBC's The Wall, Channel 4 Presents, BBC's The Jason Lewis Experience and Diary of a Bad Man, Part 10.

"One of the UK's hottest acts"

In detail

As of 2008, Prince was reportedly the only Somali comedian working in Britain. He has since performed at some of the more established comedy clubs on the United Kingdom circuit. Besides the UK, he has also done stand-up shows in Canada, the United States, Holland, Northern Ireland, Kenya and Turkey. In 2013, he performed a whole month at the Cape Town Comedy Festival. He then performed at the monthly Laughter Factory comedy tour, which started at Heroes in Abu Dhabi's Crowne Plaza before heading to Dubai and Doha.

What he offers you

Prince is a relative newcomer who has the material and confidence of a full time comic. His versatile and unique story telling makes him a feel good comedian and one to watch. His comedy material draws from his roots in Somalia, growing up in Brixton, observations, and general topics.

How he presents

Prince has a lovely style in his delivery, - pacy, upbeat and infectious, - that makes the audience warm to him. Set pieces such as his Bollywood and Nollywood reconstruction capitalise on that energy well.

Languages

He/She presents in English.
