"One of the finest and most original comedians around today"The Independent

In detail

In 2004, he starred in the BBC sitcom 15 Storeys High. He is team captain on the topical comedy panel show, 8 Out of 10 Cats, and his extensive television credits include appearances on QI (BBC), Have I Got News for You (BBC), They Think It's All Over (BBC), Never Mind The Buzzcocks (BBC), The World Of Lee Evans (Channel 4), Here's Johnny (BBC) and The Stand Up Show (BBC). In 2006, he hosted his own entertainment show on Channel 4 called TV Heaven, Telly Hell. During his career as a stand-up comic he has also written material for such comics as Bill Bailey, Lee Evans and Mark Lamarr. He also became the first comedian to perform at Wembley Arena due to the fact he was supporting Rob Newman and David Baddiel - who are widely reported as being the first to have done this.

What he offers you

Sean Lock is one of the UK's most highly acclaimed and original comedians, making his stage debut over 12 years ago. His stand-up is the product of a hyperactive imagination combining hilariously surreal imagery and insightful observations on the human condition. He provides eager audiences with a seemingly casual, but densely inventive mix of observational comedy and absurdism. See Lockipedia once, and you're likely to become a dedicated Lockipedophile.

How he presents

A truly hilarious presenter, Sean is in great demand at events throughout the country. He is one of stand-up's great lateral thinkers, able to take a straightforward comedy observation, then take that quantum leap of imagination needed to make it distinctively funny. He has more than enough delightfully sharp turns of phrase, wittily disgruntled complaints and brief moments of madness to tickle the funnybone.
