In detail

After leaving school at 16, Simon spent almost 30 years in the entertainment business. Through the 1970s and 80s his production companies, based in London and Los Angeles, designed rock 'n' roll stages for artists like Rod Stewart, The Moody Blues and Stevie Wonder and events like Live Aid. In July 2006 Simon was awarded an OBE in the Queen's Birthday Honours list in recognition of his outstanding business career. One of the main things that Simon has learned during the process of setting up his companies is the importance of delegating responsibility, to create a sense of ownership at many levels in the organisation. If you get that right, you can go on to build, well everything! YO! Company now includes: YO! Sushi, YOTEL (hotels); RadiYO!, YO! HOW; YO! ZONE, the spa YO! HOME; YO!.

What he offers you

Simon is a totally inspired, innovative and creative individual with a lifestyle brand at his fingertips. Simon believes that when you can touch the person inside the business and the person behind the customer two things happen: a) you will never lose them and b) it will be far easier to do good things without trying too hard. Funny, moving and inspiring Simon tells it how it is - there's a lot to relate to for everybody and a lot to learn from his mistakes as well as his successes.
