

Steve Smith

Broadcaster, Olympic High Jumping Medallist

CSA Celebrity Speakers Ltd

Steve Smith is Britain's most successful high jumper having won a medal in every major championship including the Olympic Games. His British record has now stood untouched for over an incredible 17 years. Since retirement he has gone on to be a successful restaurateur and a broadcaster for Sky, Channel 4 and the BBC, using the techniques that brought him success as an athlete.

Voted the Academy of Chief Executives Speaker of the Year

In detail

Steve was the inspirational captain of the British team for the European Championship in 1998. A ruptured Achilles tendon finished Steve's career in 1999 at a time when he was the World number one and was seen by many as the favourite for the Sydney Olympics. Well known as an athlete who always delivered when it really mattered, his ability to respond to the pressure situation of an all or nothing third attempt was key to his success and gained him a reputation as one of the toughest mental competitors on the circuit.

What he offers you

Steve's presentations are largely based on his belief that you need to push yourself outside of your comfort zone to achieve the very best that you can at the ultimate moment.

How he presents

His presentations are interactive and challenging as he takes the audience on a rollercoaster journey through his Olympic experience using visual props to bring the experience to life.
