IN DETAIL:

He began his coaching career with Galwegians RFC in 1989 and coached several other domestic sides before securing the head coach position for Ireland in 1998. In 2007, he took the helm for Wales, where he remained until 2019, becoming one of the nation's greatest rugby managers. Gatland guided Wales to their first Triple Crown victory since 2005 and their tenth Grand Slam when they won the 2008 Six Nations. He played a pivotal role in rejuvenating Welsh rugby, with his ability to inspire his team being second to none. In 2012, Gatland led Wales to their second Grand Slam in just four years. In 2019, he became the first coach to win three Grand Slams in the Six Nations era, solidifying his status as one of Wales' greatest coaches. Under his leadership, Wales reached the number one position in the world rankings.
