

Andrew Neil

Former BBC Broadcaster and Media Mogul

"2020 Broadcaster of the Year" – The London Press Club

Andrew Neil is a publisher, writer, businessman and broadcaster. He is Chairman and Editor-in-Chief of Press Holdings, owner of The Spectator and various titles around the world. On-screen he has regularly scrutinised Westminster and leading figures across politics on shows including Daily Politics and Politics Live.

TOPICS:

- Global Economics
- International Politics and Finance, with special reference to UK, US, Europe and the Middle East
- The Media
- How to do Business in the Digital Age
- Moderator/Facilitator
- IT & Online Business

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

1996 Full Disclosure

IN DETAIL:

During his 25 years with the BBC Andrew presented a variety of live political shows from The Andrew Neil Show to Politics Live on BBC2. For 16 years, until 2019, he presented the award-winning cult show, This Week on BBC1. After leaving the BBC, Andrew launched the political programme, The Andrew Neil Show, for Channel 4. In the aftermath of the Queen's death, he hosted a ninety-minute special prime time discussion programme on the channel. In the course of his career, Andrew has interviewed seminal world leaders such as Kofi Anan, Richard Nixon, and Ronald Reagan; Margaret Thatcher and Boris Johnson; Boris Yeltsin; Nicholas Sarkozy and PW Botha. During his career, he has been a House of Commons political correspondent in London, White House correspondent in Washington DC and Wall Street correspondent in New York – all for The Economist.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

At the forefront of world news and digital television developments Andrew is well placed to comment on the information revolution. A widely respected opinion leader and a businessman with real and current knowledge, he will help you plan your future communications strategy.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Informal but professional, humorous but thought-provoking, Andrew will add pace and energy to your event.