Charlie McMurdie

Former Head of Cyber Crime: Scotland Yard

"An internationally acclaimed authority on cyber security"

Charlie McMurdie is the former Head of Scotland Yards of Economic and Cyber Crime. As head of the Police Central eCrime Unit and National cybercrime programmes, Charlie was the UK's top law enforcement officer in the international world of hacking, cybercrime and online fraud.

TOPICS:

- Internet Security
- Cyber Crime
- Cyber Security in the Context of Global Security Concerns
- Cybersecurity as CEO Domain

LANGUAGES:

She presents in English.

IN DETAIL:

Charlie led the cybercrime and cyber terrorism response for numerous international investigations including delivering the 2012 Olympics cyber response while providing over £1.8 billion harm prevention. After leaving law enforcement, Charlie became a Senior Cyber Crime Adviser to PwC and was a key member of Breach Aid, PwC's multidisciplinary team charged with responding to serious attacks on clients. Her work now focuses on stressing the vital need for appropriate countermeasures to cyber security issues, whether they are physical or digital in nature. She examines the strategic nature of the precautions required, both now and in the years to come.

WHAT SHE OFFERS YOU:

The world of cyber security is fast moving and complex, with implications for governments, businesses, and private citizens alike. Charlie uses her unique experience in law enforcement and the private sector to analyse the nature of the threat, both present and future, and to suggest practical, strategic solutions.

HOW SHE PRESENTS:

A distinguished and highly respected expert, Charlie provides excellent and useful inside knowledge on the topic of cybercrime and security.