LANGUAGES:

He presents in English, French and Bengali.

IN DETAIL:

Dhiraj works with senior leaders to move beyond AI pilots and into what he calls "AI 2.0" – the shift from isolated experimentation to productive deployment across the organisation. Drawing on decades of company building and deep exposure to the global AI ecosystem, he helps executives make clearer strategic decisions about where AI truly creates value, how to design adaptable teams, and how leadership itself must evolve as intelligent systems become embedded in the workplace. His advisory work with major organisations including UBS, Eli Lilly, Unilever and PwC, alongside engagement with policymakers and enterprise leaders across the Middle East and Asia, positions him at the intersection of technology, strategy, and real-world execution.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Audiences leave Dhiraj's keynotes with more than inspiration, they gain practical frameworks for leading in uncertainty and scaling innovation responsibly. He equips leaders with tools to build adaptable organisations, make better long-term technology bets, and prepare their workforce for roles that are rapidly evolving. Combining strategic foresight with grounded operational lessons from building and investing in high-growth technology companies, Dhiraj delivers clarity, confidence, and actionable direction in a world where change is accelerating.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

His deep expertise, combined with a natural ability to simplify complex concepts, keeps audiences engaged and leave a lasting impression.
