

Emily Taylor

CEO, Cyber Security & Internet Policy Specialist

"An Internet governance expert"

Emily Taylor is CEO of Oxford Information Labs. She is an Associate Fellow of Chatham House and is Editor of the Journal of Cyber Policy. A lawyer by training, Emily has worked in the Internet sector for nearly 20 years.

TOPICS:

- Cybersecurity
- Science & IT Technology
- Communication and Social Media
- Women in Technology

LANGUAGES:

She presents in English.

IN DETAIL:

Emily is lead author of the annual EURid UNESCO World Report on Internationalised Domain Names. Other research interests include ICANN and internet governance, privacy and social media disinformation, emerging technical standards such as 5G, digital divide issues including gender and language. Emily teaches courses on cybersecurity and internet law and governance at several universities across Europe and provides training on cybersecurity for officials at the Cabinet Office and Foreign Office with Chatham House. Emily is a sought-after public speaker and moderator internationally and has written for the Guardian, Wired, Ars Technica, the New Statesman and the Slate. She is a regular commentator on technology issues in news and broadcast media including the BBC and Sky News.

WHAT SHE OFFERS YOU:

Emily Taylor is an inspirational speaker and a technologist with a great deal of expertise on the intersection of technology, business and education. Emily provides a solid scientific background and helps audiences around the world understand what is to come in the future.

HOW SHE PRESENTS:

Highly engaging and inspiring, Emily's speaking style involves openness, and is deeply insightful and a challenge to the audience.