
Dr. James Bellini

Leading Futurologist

"A historian of the future"

Dr James Bellini has a considerable reputation as a thought-provoking speaker and moderator at top-level management conferences and business schools around the world. James is a respected futures analyst and writer with a strong focus on social, economic and technological trends up to Horizon 2025.

TOPICS:

- Global Shift - Perspectives on the Changing Balance of World Economic Power
- Tomorrow's Mass Markets: Rise of the Global Middle Class
- Scenarios for 2030: Prospects for a Western Industrial Renaissance?
- Impact of Emerging Technologies and the Wireless World
- Smart Living in the Future Connected World
- Big Data: the Third Industrial Revolution?
- Tomorrow's Company and the Challenge for Managers
- Innovation in a Networked World
- Green Agenda: Building the Post-Carbon Future

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2006	The Bullshit Factor
2001	Emerging Issues in Rehabilitation Counseling: Perspectives on the New Millennium
1987	High Tech Holocaust

1983 Europe's Changing Markets

1981 Rule Britannia: A Progress Report for Domesday 1986

IN DETAIL:

After an early academic career James joined the US-headquartered futurology 'think tank', the Hudson Institute, as its first British member. He subsequently moved to the BBC to present The Money Programme, Newsnight, and Panorama. He has received numerous awards and accolades for his outstanding work throughout his career. For seven years he was a studio presenter with Financial Times Television and Sky News. James has written many books and special reports and is a regular contributor to leading publications.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Dr. Bellini addresses issues both present and future that impact on the process of management decision-making. He focuses on a number of specific but interrelated areas of direct relevance to business and government.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

He is a brilliant and polished speaker; he is also one of Europe's leading conference facilitators, with a long career in broadcast journalism.