

Sir Jason Kenny CBE

Seven-Time Gold Medal-winning Track Cyclist

"Britain's most successful Olympian with seven Olympic gold medals"

Sir Jason Kenny has just retired from a glittering career in track cycling and is one half of "Britain's Golden Couple" alongside his wife Dame Laura Kenny. Jason's seven gold medals and two silvers make him Great Britain's greatest ever Olympian. After competing at four Olympic Games, Jason joined the Great Britain Cycling team on the other side of the track, becoming the Podium Men's Sprint Coach ahead of the 2024 Paris Olympic Games.

IN DETAIL:

When it comes to the Olympics, Jason has a spotless record - finishing on the podium in every men's sprint event since Beijing 2008. Jason made his debut in the world championships in 2008, finishing fifth overall in the sprint competition. He won gold medal at the Beijing Olympics in the team sprint, breaking the world record in the qualifying round. He also gained a silver medal in individual sprint. With his kit partner, HUUB, Jason created his own range of cycling kit, and is a proud start up investor in the newly engineered bike brand REAP, to create the world's fastest performance bikes.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Jason draws on his experiences as an international sportsman. He has achieved great success at senior level at an early age, which has also brought vast media experience both in the UK and abroad.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Jason comes across as a very assured young man who having had a lot of experience racing both domestically and internationally, shows no signs of nerves. His participation at any event adds good humour, charisma and prestige.
