

Jenny Drummond

Sports Broadcast Journalist

"A dynamic force in sports broadcasting"

Jenny Drummond is a versatile and dynamic broadcaster who has amassed an impressive body of work across various sports, developing deep expertise in tennis, rugby and golf. She is known for her rapport with players and coaches and her captivating interview style.

TOPICS:

- Media and Broadcasting in Sports
- Navigating the Sports Industry
- Leadership and Teamwork in Sports
- Moderate & Host

LANGUAGES:

She presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2020 Podcast: The Off Air Podcast

IN DETAIL:

A former elite junior tennis player, Jenny has commentated, reported, and presented at all four Grand Slam tournaments. She was part of BBC Sport's TV presenting team for Wimbledon 2023. Her work with the BBC also includes the 2023/2024 Women's Six Nations and the 2020 Tokyo Olympics. Jenny has extensive experience within rugby, she is regularly a part of TNT Sport's men's and women's rugby coverage which includes the Gallagher Premiership, Investec Champions Cup and Allianz Premiership Women's Rugby, as well as the United Rugby Championship. Within the golf world, Jenny annually presents the R&A's digital coverage of the AIG Women's Open, hosts Rolex Patron Days and is a founding member of the GOLFGIRLS YouTube series which encourages women and girls to start playing golf.

WHAT SHE OFFERS YOU:

Jenny's profound understanding of sports, coupled with her innate ability to connect with audiences, underscores her effectiveness as a speaker. She brings a unique blend of insight, passion, and authenticity to her presentations.

HOW SHE PRESENTS:

With a wealth of experience and a passion for sports that knows no bounds, Jenny continues to inspire and empower audiences through her engaging and impactful storytelling.