IN DETAIL:

In 1999 Estee Lauder announced the acquisition of Jo Malone but Jo remained Creative Director until her departure in 2006. She developed products which helped to establish the brand as an innovator within the international beauty industry. Jo's passion for fragrance never ceased and in 2011 she found she could do it again and launched her new global brand Jo Loves. Starting out with a collection of eight fragrances and two innovative layered scented candles, today the brand offers a wide range of products available online and in stores worldwide.

WHAT SHE OFFERS YOU:

In her presentations Jo provides useful insights into the world of retail using examples of her successes, failures, challenges (both personal and commercial) and the motivation behind her achievements. She is also in great demand at after dinner events.

HOW SHE PRESENTS:

Jo shares her wealth of knowledge about retail, revealing her tales of triumph and defeat, presenting her successful strategies and explaining her motivations for success. Hers is a magnetic presence felt throughout any space, especially during after dinner events, where her wit and wisdom are always in high demand.
