

Prof. Mark Maslin

Climatologist, University College London

"A leading authority in global and regional climatic change"

Mark Maslin FRGS, FRSA is a Professor of Earth System Science at University College London. He is a founding director of Rezatec Ltd., a geospatial analytics company which provides big data solutions for companies, NGOs and Governments.

TOPICS:

- Climate Change Solutions
- The Great Ice Ages
- Human Evolution
- Rewilding and Reforestation
- Remote Sensing of Earth
- Environmental Business
- Global Green Economy

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2018	The Human Planet(co-authored with Simon Lewis)
2017	The Cradle of Humanity
2014	Climate Change: A Very Short Introduction?

IN DETAIL:

Mark is a Royal Society Wolfson Research Scholar and leading scientist with expertise in global and regional climatic change and has published over 160 papers in journals such as Science, Nature, and The Lancet. He has written 10 books, over 50 popular articles and his blogs for The Conversation have now been read over 1.5 million times. He appears regularly on radio and television including: BBC One, Channel 5, CNN, World Service, and Sky News. He was one of the lead authors on the 2009 Lancet report "Managing the Health effects of climate change" and is part of the annual Lancet Countdown on health and climate change whose latest report will be published in Oct 2019. He was included in Who's Who for the first time in 2009.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

With increasing media attention and public awareness, climate change is one of the most important challenges we face today. Mark Maslin will explain the fundamental facts, why governments are concerned and are taking real action, how businesses can respond to this challenge and opportunity and how it will affect our daily lives.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

A passionate and engaging speaker, Mark Maslin travels the world delivering presentations extolling importance of environmental awareness.