

Micky Flanagan

Cockney Stand-Up Comedian

"Rarely short of hilarious" Steve Bennett - Chortle

Micky Flanagan is one of the biggest comedians of the moment. He was the best-selling comic in the UK without doing a show, purely for the advance tickets on his 2017 tour, An' Another Fing which became the biggest stand-up tour in the world that year. He was also the first comic to do 16 London arenas in one tour.

He presents in English.

IN DETAIL:

In 2007 Micky Flanagan was nominated for The Edinburgh Comedy Award with his show What Chance Change? This became the basis for his Radio 4 series which led to TV and show-stealing appearance at The Royal Variety Performance, for which he was nominated for the Best Breakthrough Act at the British Comedy Awards. Unforgettable appearances on Michael McIntyre's Comedy Roadshow and Live At The Apollo followed plus hilarious outings on panel & chat shows which has helped Micky become one of the best-loved comedians in the UK. He has enjoyed being the headline act at The Comedy Store, Jongleurs, The Glee Club, The Monday Club, The Stand and The Boat Show. He has performed at the Edinburgh Fringe and toured Britain with stand-up shows.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Micky Flanagan draws on his East End background as he ruthlessly deconstructs the Cockney Myth with razor sharp observational wit. He tells a comic tale of a working class upbringing, where alphabet spaghetti is a luxury. His chatty, effervescent delivery engages the most reticent of rooms.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

His delivery is spot on, he's a hilarious comedian with the envious ability to be able to just stand and say nothing and people are still crying with laughter.
