

Prof. Moritz Schularick

President, Kiel Institute for the World Economy

"Practitioner and Academic: unique combination of skills and experience"

Moritz Schularick is the President of the Kiel Institute for the World Economy and Professor of Economics at Sciences Po Paris, Director of the MacroFinance Lab, and a Fellow of the DFG-Excellence Cluster ECONtribute. He is a key voice on European defence economics.

TOPICS:

- Macrofinance
- Banking and Financial Stability
- International Economics
- Political Economy
- Economic History

IN DETAIL:

His work on credit cycles, asset prices, and financial stability has provided the backdrop for so-called macro-prudential policies aimed at curbing credit booms and stability risks. Renowned as an expert in his field, Prof. Schularick frequently serves as a consultant to central banks and actively contributes to public discourse through various media channels. His remarkable contributions have been recognised through prestigious accolades, including the 2022 Leibniz Prize, Germany's highest research distinction awarded by the German Research Foundation. Prof. Schularick holds the position of Fellow at the Institute for New Economic Thinking and serves as a Managing Editor for "Economic Policy," Europe's foremost policy journal.

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English and German.

PUBLICATIONS:

2022 Leveraged: The New Economics of Debt and Financial Fragility

2020 Income and Wealth Inequality in America, 1949 bis 2016 - in: Journal of Political Economy (Co-Author)

2017 No Price Like Home - in: American Economic Review (Co-Author)

2016 Going to Extremes: Politics after Financial Crises - in: European Economic Review (Co-Author)

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

In his presentations, Prof. Schularick provides innovative perspectives on central questions facing society: the origins of financial stability and excessive risk taking in financial markets, the link between rising debt and inequality and future of globalisation.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Prof. Schularick's speaking style engages audiences, inspiring them to delve deep into the subject matter and arrive at profound and enlightening conclusions. His ability to encourage critical thinking and foster insightful discussions sets him apart as a truly engaging speaker.