

Nabil Al Busaidi

Record-Breaking Adventurer

"One of the top 50 most influential Arabs in the world"

Nabil Al Busaidi is a record-breaking active adventurer; the first Arab to row an ocean, and the first Arab to walk to the magnetic North Pole. He is also an engaging speaker, accomplished sportsman and a charity ambassador.

TOPICS:

- Explore Life without Limits
- Teamwork
- Goal Setting
- Motivation
- Inspiration

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2011 The Arab Who Took on The Arctic

IN DETAIL:

Nabil Al Busaidi has carried the name of Oman to the farthest corners of the earth to plant the Omani flag and raise funds for charity. His goal is always to inspire the youth of the Middle East and to present a positive image of Arabs and Muslims to the rest of the World. Throughout all his expeditions Nabil wrote extensive and educational diary notes and sent pictures, which were printed in newspapers around the world. In this way he shared his experiences with the people of the Middle East. As a result of his amazing adventures, two publications in the Middle East voted Nabil in their "Top 100 Influential Arabs", Arabian Business and Middle East magazine. He went to Bath University where he graduated in 1993 with a BSc in Mathematics. He also did a Masters in Management there in 1997.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Nabil Al Busaidi shares experiences gained on his expeditions and explains how you can use the same principles he used, in your personal life, or at work with a focus on perseverance, teamwork, and goal setting.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Nabil is an inspiring, passionate, and entertaining speaker who illustrates his presentations with stunning images that bring his challenges alive.