

Lord Nicholas Stern

Global Economist & Chairman of the LSE Grantham Institute

"One of the world's leading Authority on Climate Change"

Lord Stern is a globally recognised economist, and one the world's leading authorities on climate change, international development and global economic growth. He is IG Patel Professor of Economics and Government at London School of Economics, and Head of the India Observatory and Chairman of the Grantham Research Institute on Climate Change and the Environment.

TOPICS:

- The Economic Implications of Global Climate Change
- Mid-Term Economic Growth
- A New Industrial Revolution
- The Consequences of Profound Changes in the International Division of Labour
- Ethics and Economics

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2015	Why Are We Waiting?
2009	Blueprint for a Safer Planet: How to Manage Climate Change and Create a New Era of Progress and Prosperity
2006	The Economics of Climate Change. The Stern Review

IN DETAIL:

A former Chief Economic Advisor to the UK government he was also the Chief Economist and Senior Vice-President of the World Bank from 2000 to 2003. He also played a key role in Europe's economic development as the chief economist and senior advisor to the Director of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Lord Nicholas Stern made headline news around the world and became an instant household name when he published his critically acclaimed and long awaited 700 pages ground-breaking "Stern Review" into the economic impact of climate change.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Through his in-depth analysis and thought-provoking viewpoints, Lord Stern aims to foster a broader understanding of the economic aspects of climate change. He encourages collaboration between companies, and countries, promoting a collective effort to seize the opportunities presented by a low-carbon future while mitigating the risks posed by climate change.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

By delving into the complexities and considering both the present and the future, he provides audiences with a comprehensive understanding of the factors influencing global markets.