

Paul Sinha

Award Winning Stand-up Comedian

"This is what a good stand-up should be – hilariously funny, passionate and articulate" Chortle

Paul Sinha is a trained medical doctor who is perhaps best known as the Sinnerman on the hugely popular ITV quiz show The Chase. Paul has been a successful comedian for a number of years. As a club comedian, he has played every major comedy club in the UK and performed in countries across the globe.

IN DETAIL:

An experienced consultant neurologist calmly informed Paul that he had Parkinson's disease. It was a devastating dénouement to a medical odyssey that began with a sudden-onset frozen right shoulder. In the time since his Parkinson's started, he has been ludicrously busy; and Paul fully intends to keep chasing, writing and performing comedy, quizzing, and keep being hopeless at "tasks". Paul has taken eight solo shows to the Edinburgh Fringe. On Radio 4, Paul has appeared several times on venerable favourites Just A Minute, The Now Show, and The News Quiz; and has carved out a career in factual comedy, making programmes on cricket. On Radio 5 Live, he is a regular on the "feisty" sports panel show Fighting Talk.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Paul's witty and intelligent brand of comedy is much in demand around the world on stage, radio and television. Paul draws inspiration from life's lunacies and shows why he has become one of the most critically celebrated Edinburgh Festival comedians of recent years.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Paul's wonderfully relaxed, friendly story-telling style combines wry observations on life and the world with beautifully crafted one-liners, along with a fund of anecdotes from his experiences with patients and bureaucracy.
