

Rob Hayles is a three-time Olympic medallist and double Track World Champion. He is now one of the most highly regarded commentators on international cycling working on all the major events including the Tour de France, Track cycling, BMX and mountain bike.

TOPICS:

- Sports
- Teamwork
- Motivation
- Leadership

LANGUAGES:

He presents in English.

PUBLICATIONS:

2013 Easy Rider: My Life on a Bike

IN DETAIL:

Rob's track cycling career saw him develop into a key member of the British Track Cycling endurance team. He cemented his position at an international level by winning silver in the Team Pursuit and bronze in the Individual Pursuit at the Track World Championships. Several more titles followed, including medals at consecutive Olympic Games. However, tragedy struck when Rob had a near fatal car crash suffering a triple fracture of his pelvis and a fracture of his T12 vertebrae. Persistence, courage and passion got him back to the form he was in prior to the accident and finally, Rob stood on top of the podium at the Commonwealth Games where he took Gold in the Team Pursuit. Rob has ridden for several professional road teams both in the UK and on the continent.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Rob's enthusiasm and experience make him an ideal candidate for corporate speaking events, where he can translate his understanding of teamwork, tactics and success from cycling into a business environment.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Rob Hayles is one of the sport's biggest personalities, highly regarded, personable and easy to get along with. His talks are relevant and entertaining and with his laid back and witty style, he's a favourite with the audience.