

Steven Frayne - Dynamo

Magician and TV Personality

"Dynamo's world. Nothing is impossible"

Steven Frayne is a magician more popularly known as Dynamo. He possesses the uncanny ability to manipulate and mix cards in a rapid, explosive, artistic fashion and his magic effects are cool, hip and accompanied by the sounds of dance and hip hop. Initially, he started with just card games, now he has even stood on the River Thames.

IN DETAIL:

In 2000, Dynamo made a name on the local 'magic scene' by winning the Bradford Magic Circle Championships. Then in 2002 he won the Northern Magic Circle Vice President's award and became the only UK magician to rank in the top 4 at the International Magic Convention. He has since appeared on numerous TV shows including Snoop Dogg's Fatherhood, Friday Night with Jonathan Ross and the MTV EMA's where he performed for Nelly Furtado, Joss Stone and The Foo Fighters.

WHAT HE OFFERS YOU:

Dynamo has turned the world of magic on its head, amazing people across the planet from the streets of Harlem to the Cannes Film Festival; he has helped re-define the genre, inspiring countless young magicians with his blend of visual magic, card handling and ability to floor the most sceptical of audiences.

HOW HE PRESENTS:

Dynamo is a street magician who uses a variety of techniques to amaze his audience. The techniques he utilises include sleight of hand; such as double lifts and false shuffles and the use of gimmicks (or rigged devices) such as fake decks or items such as the "phone in a bottle".
